

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL OFFICER OF HEALTH FOR THE YEAR 1954.
FOR THE BOROUGH OF KIDWELLY.

INTRODUCTION.

Mr. Mayor, Aldermen and Councillors,

I beg to submit the following report for the year 1954.

I propose to introduce this report with some comments, and a summary of some of your problems and achievements from the time of the 1951 Census.

The year 1954 will go down as one of the wettest years on record. Nearly all the abnormal rainfall occurred in the second half of the year.

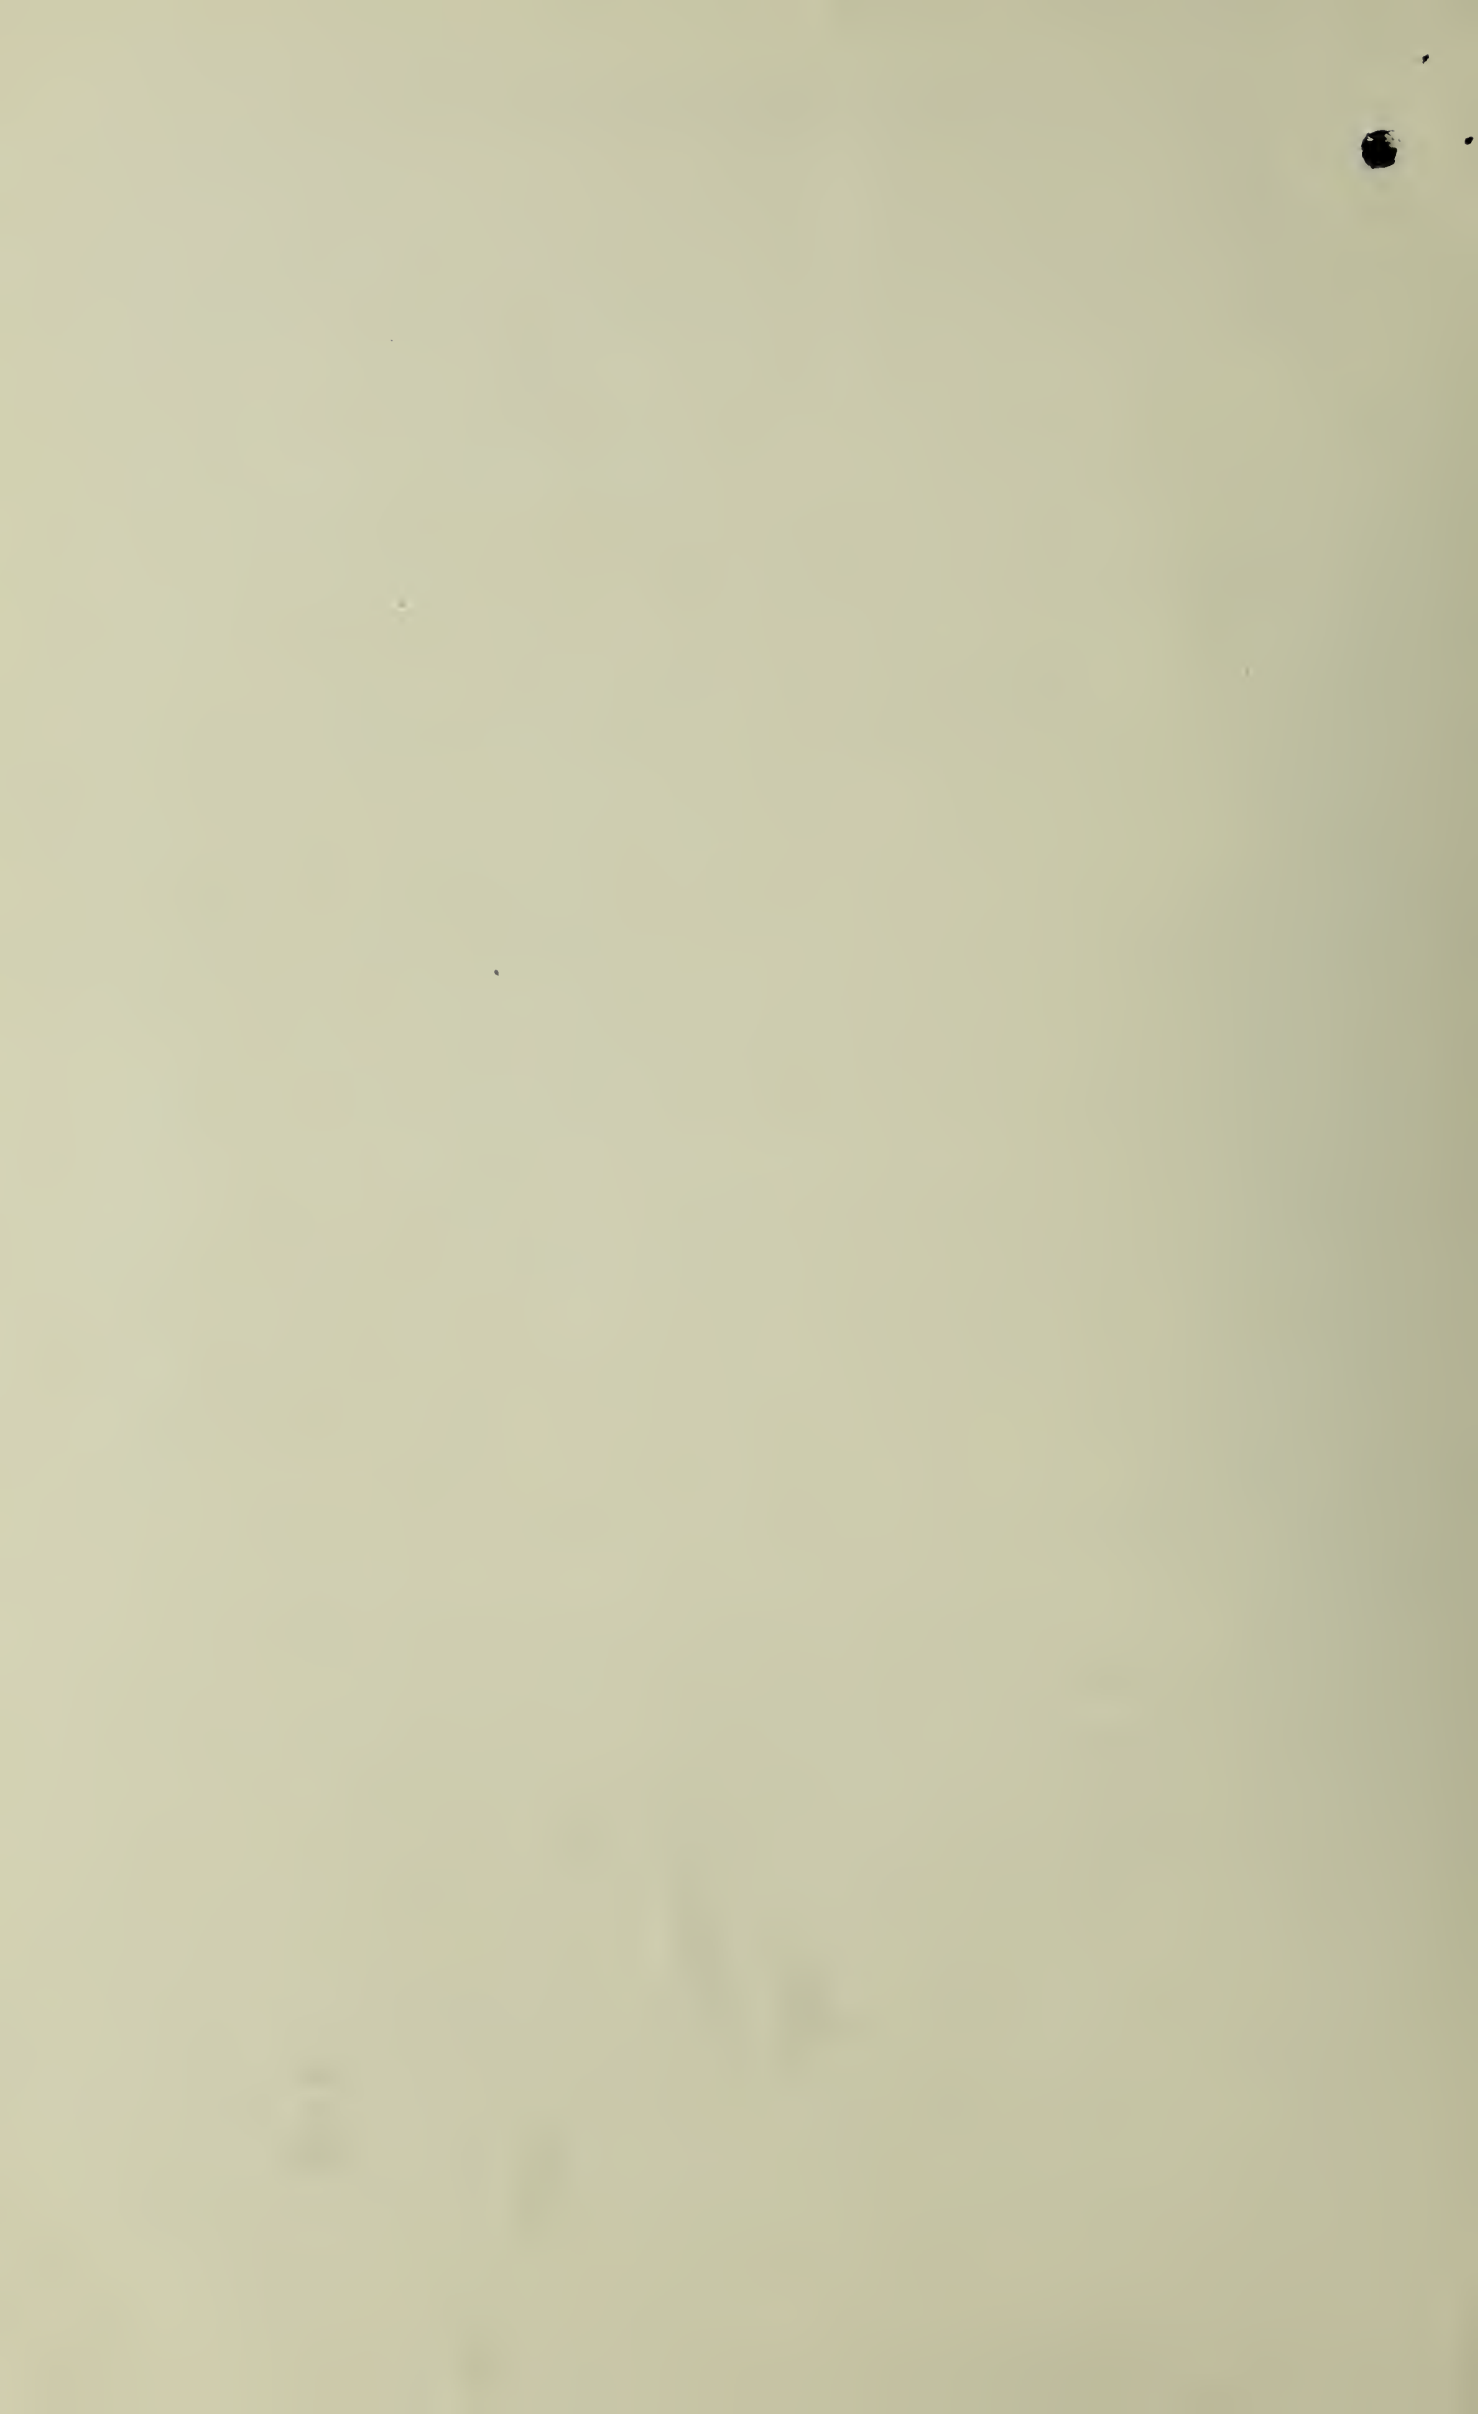

It is pleasing to report that there was no Infant or Maternal mortality during the year, nor was there an outbreak of food poisoning in your area. Apart from influenza, there were also no serious outbreaks of infectious diseases during this period.

The birth rate is lower than that for England and Wales whilst the adjusted death rate is higher. In respect of the latter, it is perhaps significant that the National Insurance figures show a higher incidence of absence from work due to sickness and/or industrial injury in Wales than in England, for both Males and Females. It is not possible for me to assess the reasons for this with the limited information available, but the types of industry and work available in Wales probably play a big part in this trend. Local 'illness' statistics are not available.

During the year, details of the 1951 Census were published. Extracts are included in tabular form in the main report. Kidwelly is an Ancient Borough, and these extracts show clearly the problems that were facing the town at that time. They show the existence and extent of overcrowding problems, and the serious lack of household amenities in the existing dwellings. Thus of the 5 household arrangements investigated by the Census, only 23% of the households of Kidwelly enjoyed the use of all five arrangements as against 35% for Carmarthenshire and Brecknockshire and 53% for England and Wales. At 17% the percentage of households sharing a dwelling was also high.

The Council were well aware of these problems and have done a great deal to rectify the position since then. They have done this, mainly by:-

1. The provision of new houses. Between April, 1951, and December, 1954, 66 houses were built and 66 households rehoused by the Council alone. In addition, 12 private dwellings were built. This has enabled the Council to deal with the main overcrowding problems of the town.
2. A major water development scheme had to be abandoned for financial reasons, but the Council have and are developing alternative schemes for the delivery of an adequate, good water supply to the community.
3. A new sewerage disposal scheme for the town has been completed and put into operation.

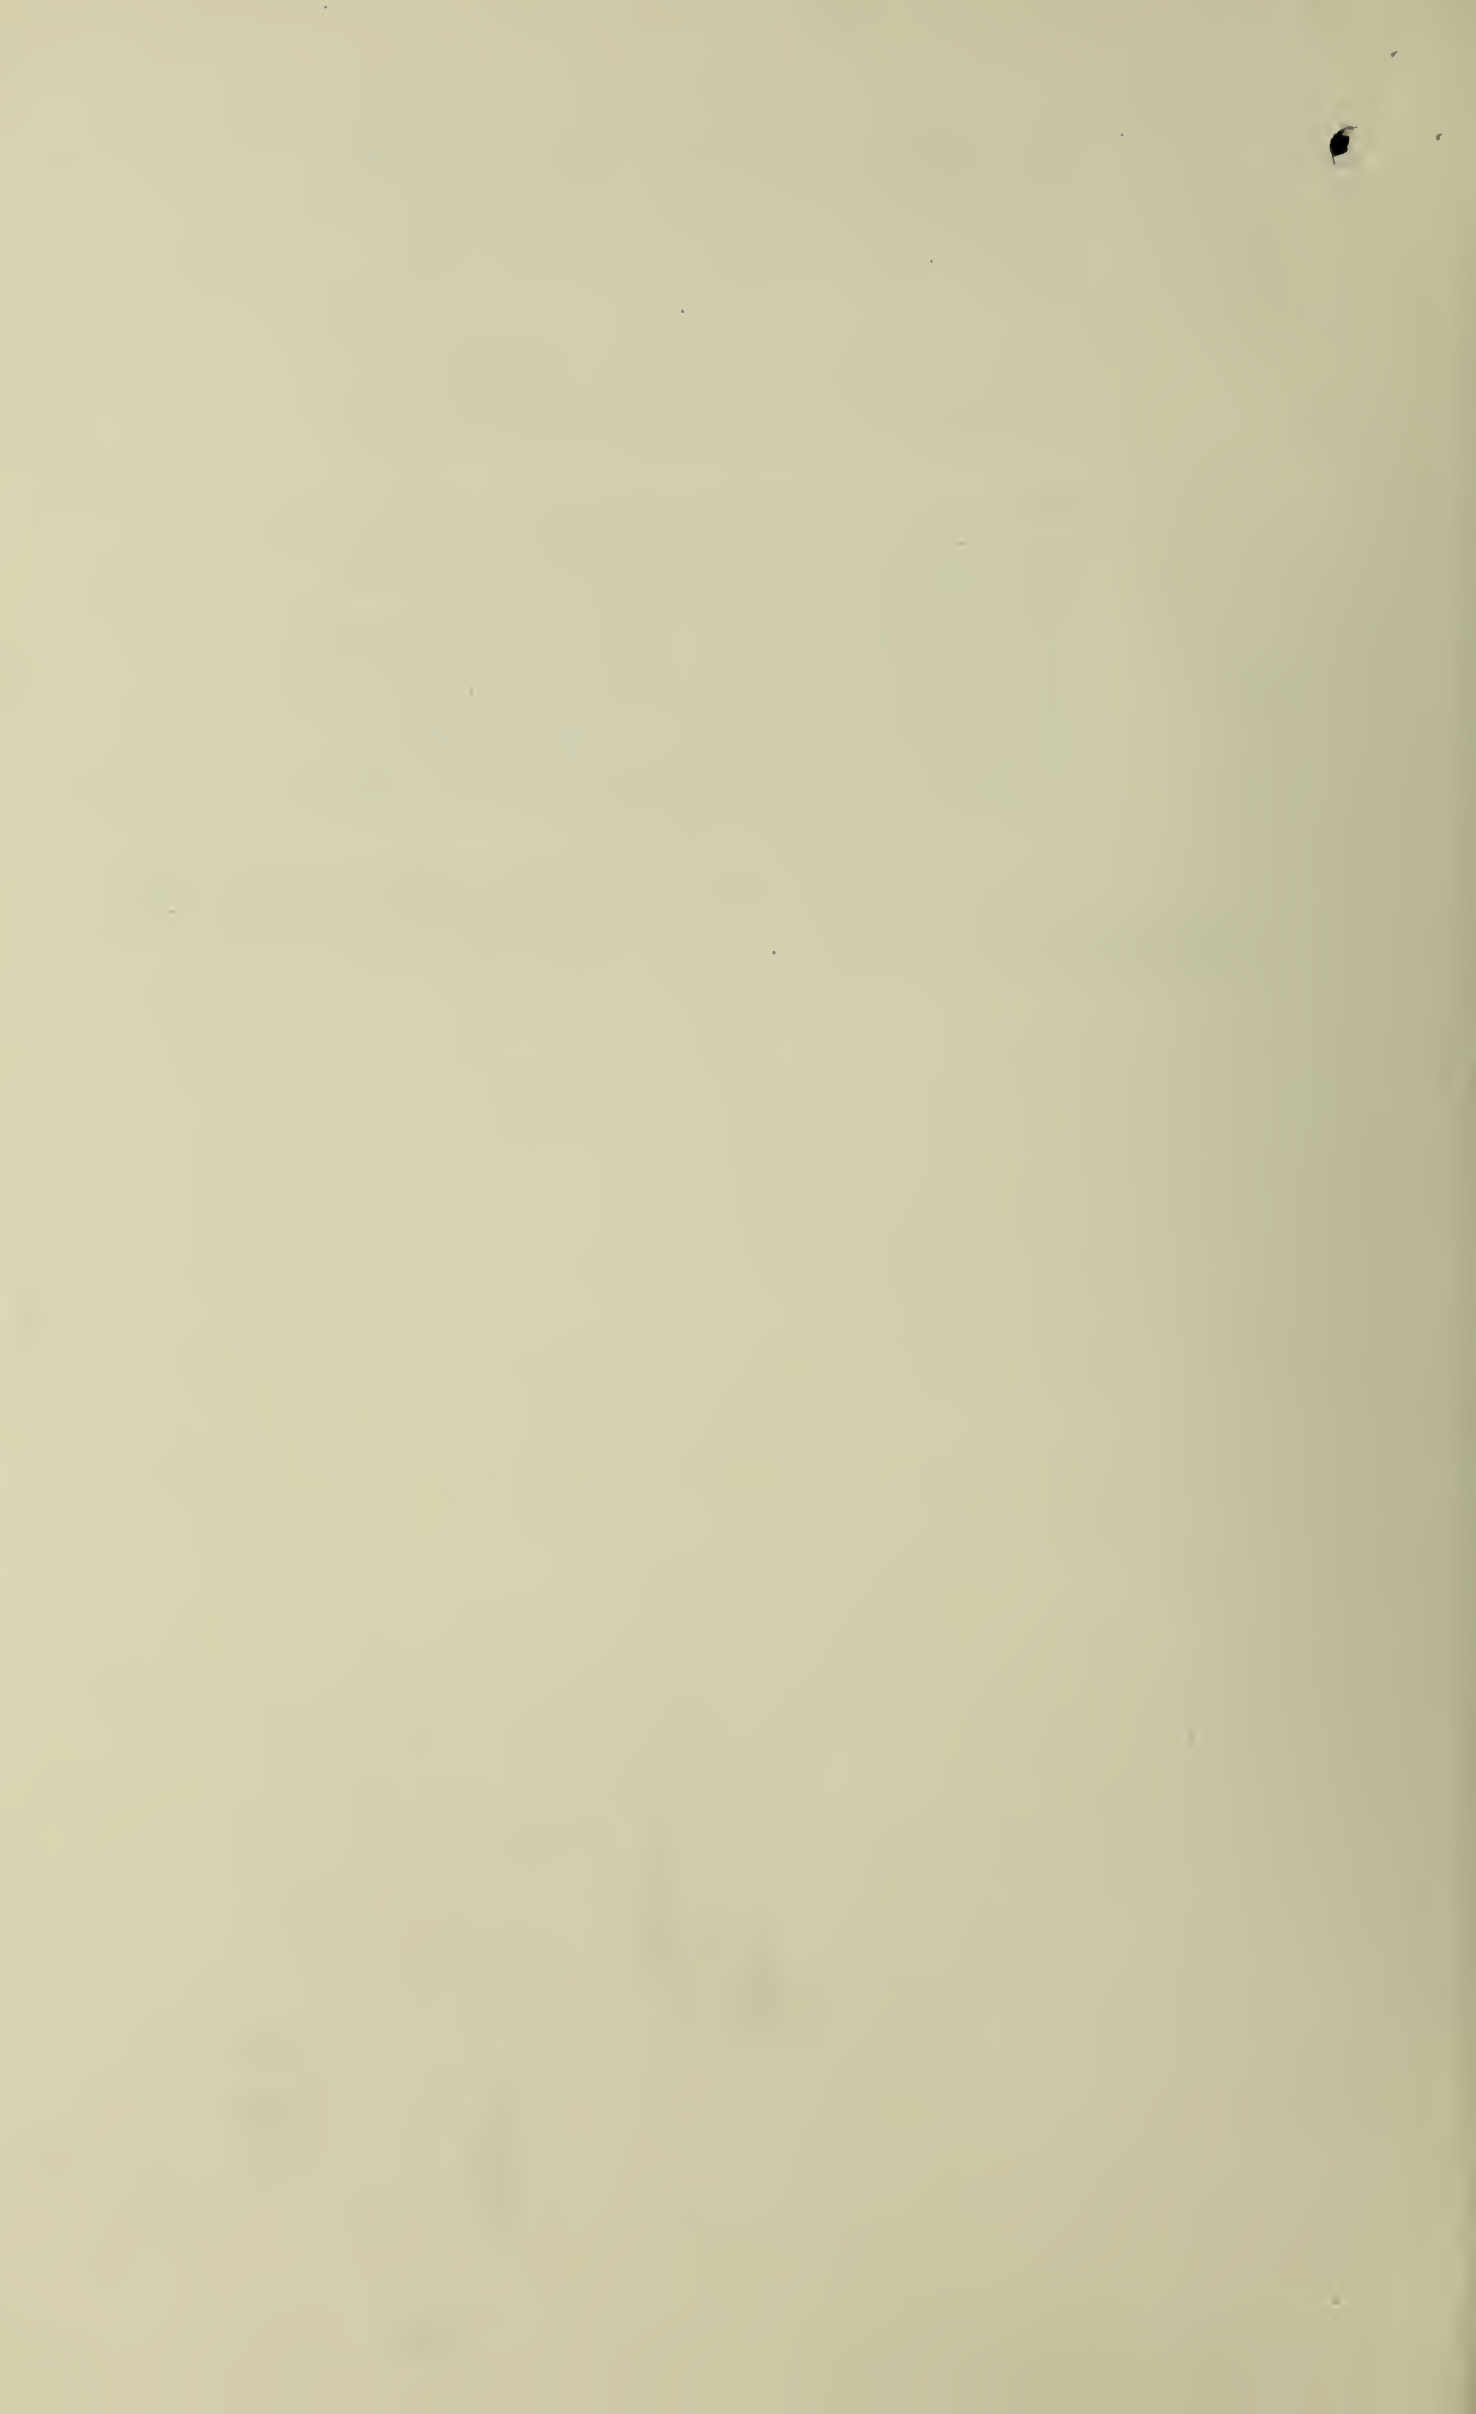

4. The Council has encouraged householders and landlords to bring their houses up to standard and provide the amenities now required in a house, by giving improvement grants to carry out such works.

Much has been achieved, but householders must in their own, and the public interest, see that they make full use of the services provided by the Council.

5. 9% of the population of Kidwelly are under 15 years of age. 69% are in working age range between 15 - 65 years of age, whilst 12% are over 65 years of age. Statisticians state, that the proportion of over 65 years of age to the under 65's will increase within the next generation from 1 in 10 to 1 in 4. To help meet the present and future needs, it is the intention of this Council to build more bungalows for the aged.

I am sure that the Council will continue to exert all its powers towards improving the conditions of the residents of the town.

Census 1951.

The census taken on April the 8th and 9th 1951, gives a most detailed report available as to the housing position in Kidwelly. If one makes allowances for the intervening years, it can still be of a most accurate guide available, I have, therefore, taken extracts from this report in the hope that they will provide information that will help the Councils

General Explanatory Notes.

Defination:

Dwellings - means a structurally separate dwelling and generally comprises any rooms or suite of rooms intended or used for habitation, having separate access to the streator to a common landing or staircase to which the public has access.

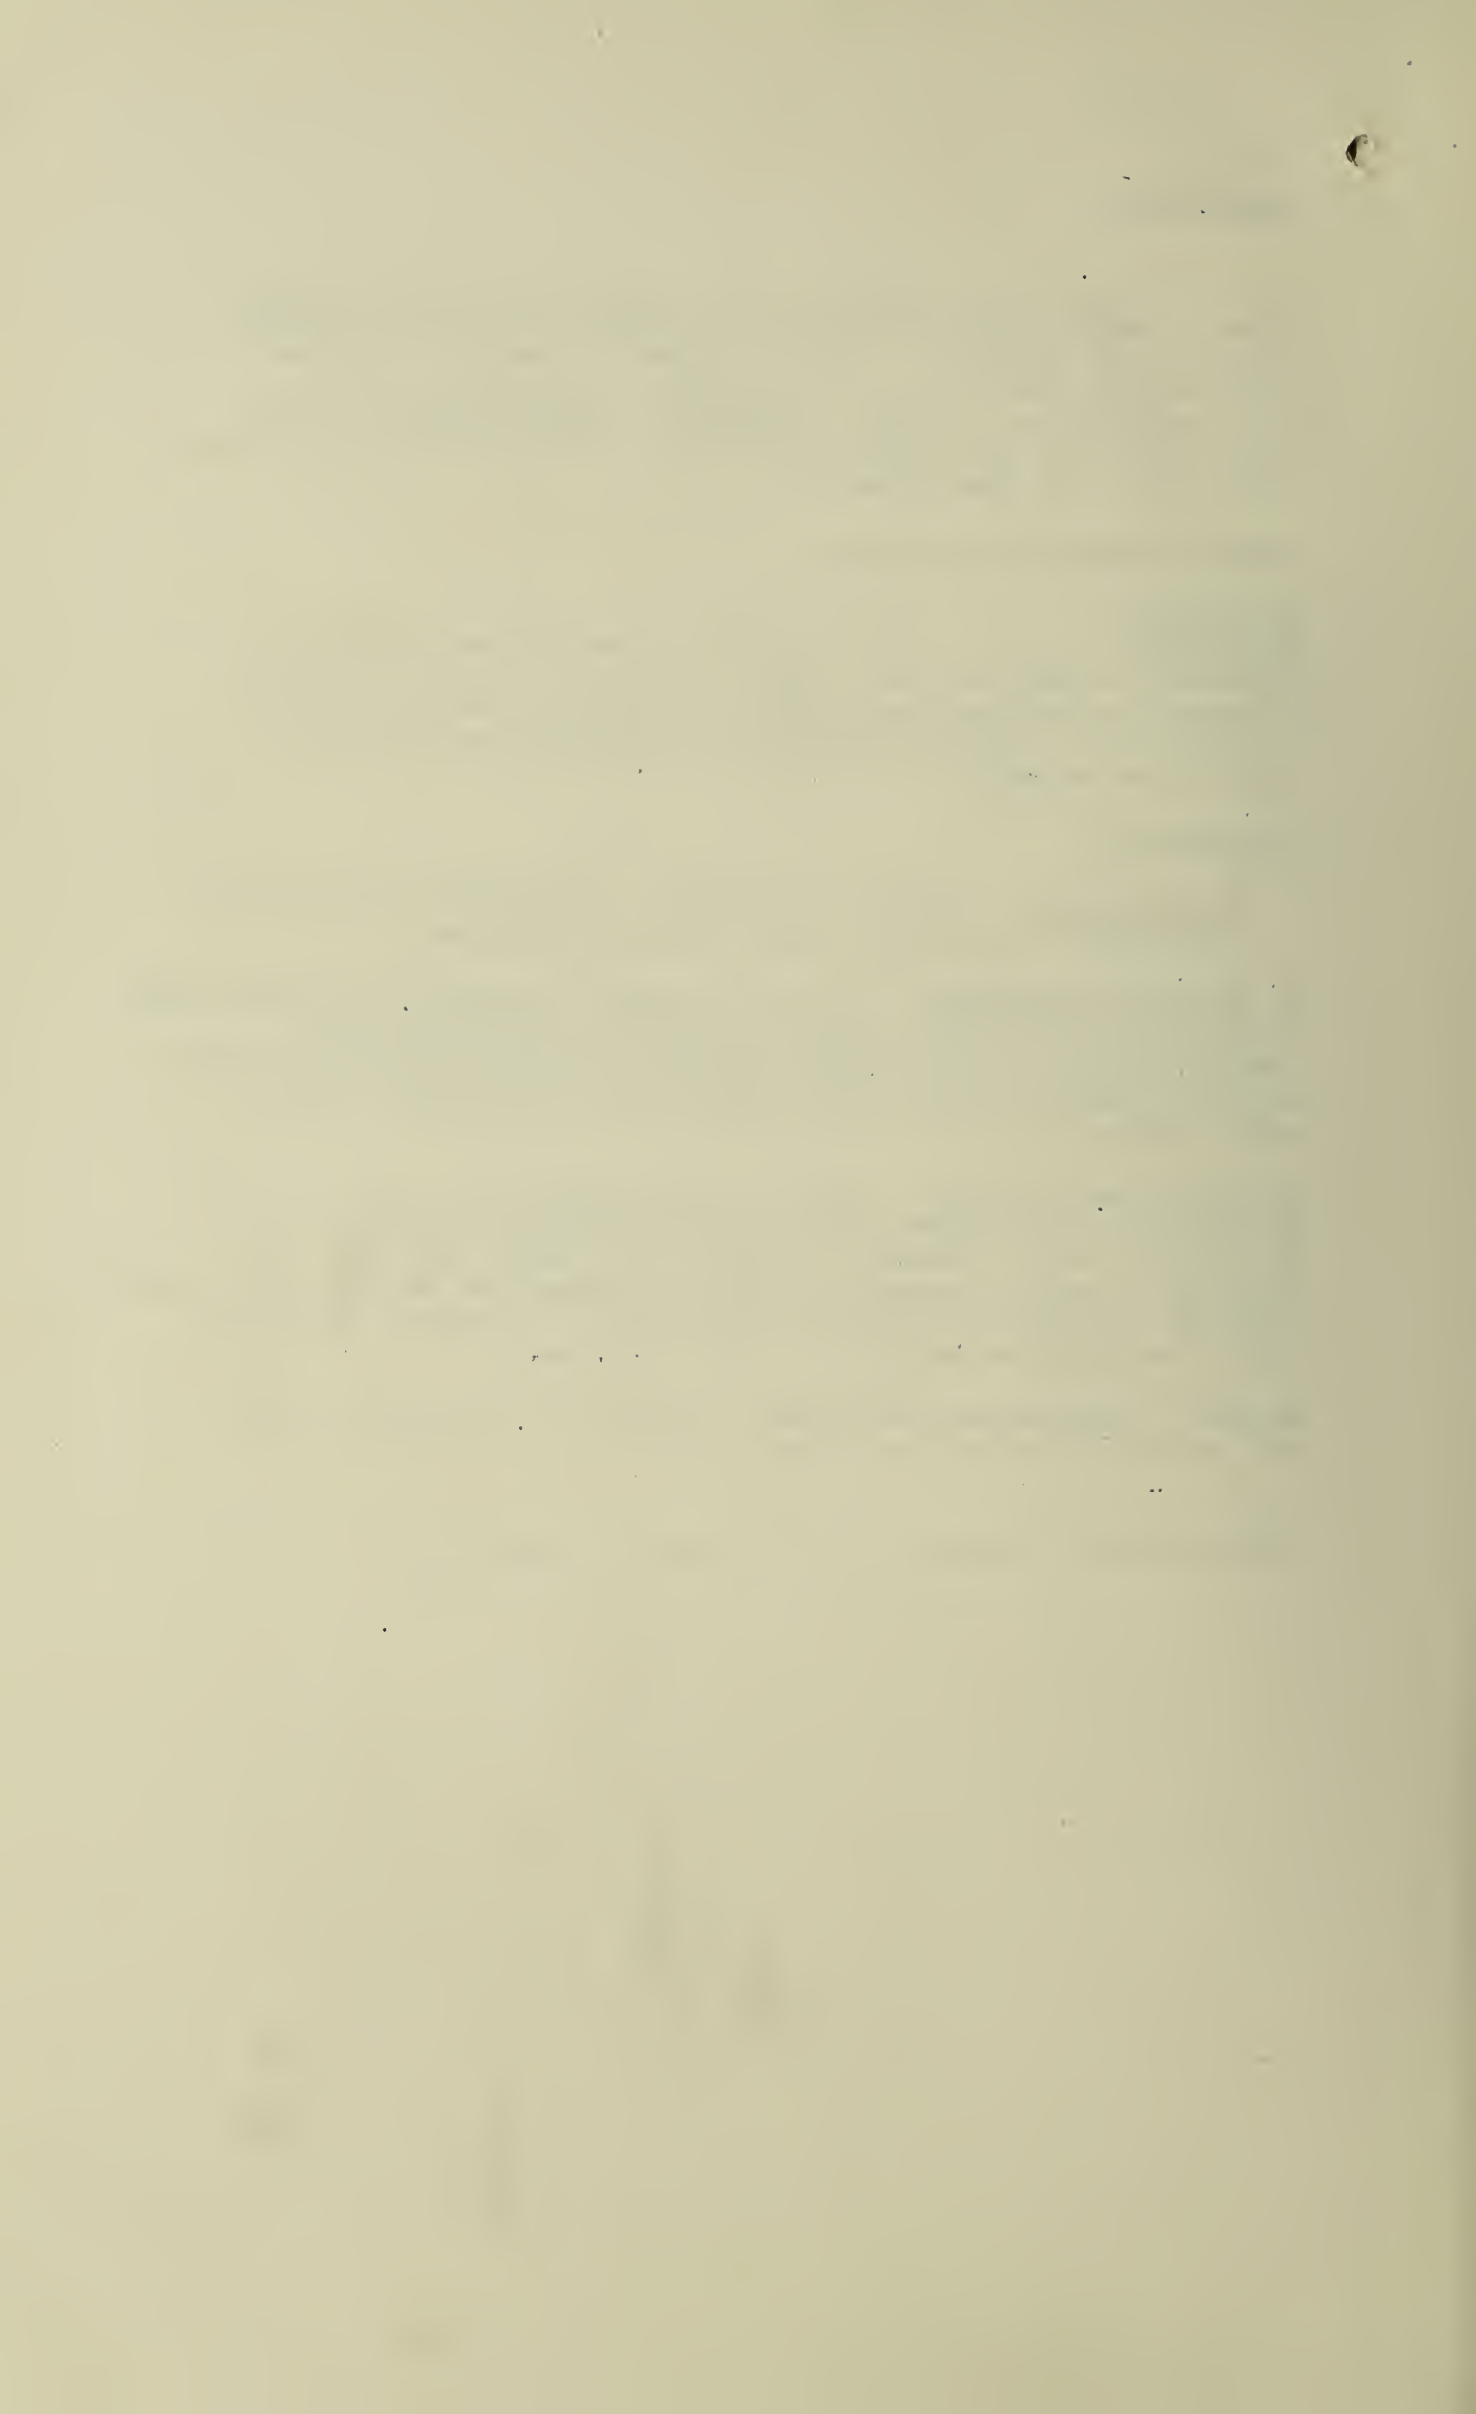

Households:

1. Non-private - broadly speaking, all persons enumerated in hotels, boarding houses and institutions.
2. Private households - can be broadly regarded as comprising single persons living alone, or groups of individuals voluntarily living together under a single meanage in the sense of sharing the same living room or eating at the same table.

Boarders and domestic servants are included in the households with which they are enumerated, as also are visitors. But a lodger or group of lodgers having, or sharing separate accommodation to themselves should have been counted as separate private households, distinct from the main occupying household of the dwelling.

Rooms: - Scullerys, bathrooms, landings, offices etc. are not usually counted as rooms.

There were no caravans in the area at thb time.
